Death of Bishop Whelan.

Vincent Whelan, Bishop of West Virginia, in the sixty-sixth year of his age. He was born in Baltimore on the 9th of January, 1809. The death of this universally estimable gentleman and zealous prelate, justifies us in devoting to his memory an unusually detailed narrative for a newspaper notice, op of Richmond before he became Bishop of Bishop Whelan entered Emmettsburg, Md., College in 1819, where he had for his guides such men as Dubois, Hughes, Purcell, McCloskey, McLaughlin, McCaffrey, Hitzelberger, and others of that order. In 1829 he was sent to St. Sulpice, Paris, where the weather to-day will be cloudy and very he took rank in divinity with St. Mare, Archbishop of Rheims, and other illustrious men of the Church. In 1832 he was under the ministration of the Archbishop of Paris. He was ordained at Versailles by the Bishop of that place.

He entered upon his first labors in 1832, at Mount St. Mary's College, Maryland, where he had in his class Bishop Elder and others subsequently distinguished in the church. From '36 to '40 he had charge of West Virginia, from the Blue Ridge to the Obio river, except Wheeling, at that time an advanced outpost of the Catholic church. His jurisdiction extended also over a part of Maryland. No man ever labored more devotedly. He has been often seen on foot bearing his saddle-bags on his shoulder, traversing his extensive field of missionary labor. Reaching the country towns it was his habit to assemble citizens by the ringing of the bell, and to address them wearing the surplice and stole.

He was received very kindly by the Richmond congregation, and entered upon his office with fine prospects. Father Tim, O'Brien, who was pastor of the Catholic church, made over to him through Archbishop Eccleston the church property. Father O'Brien had founded the female school of St. Joseph's, and the Sisters were conducting it in a flourishing style. The bishop undertook at once to establish a college for the education of young men for the ministry, and built the well-known college northeast of the city. It proved an expensive failure from its inaccessibility as a freight from the North to Lynchburg via the needs of the diocese. It was abandoned as some exemplary priests: among them Father Fox, who died at Lynchburg, where his memory is still held in veneration; Father Devlin, who died at his post while ministering to the sick in Norfolk, a victim of the memorable yellow fever plague in 1855, and Father Joseph Plunket, who died

SECRET SESSION.

The International Union will probably be here for seven or eight days. Nearly all of its sessions are secret, and none but delegates are admitted. The hours of work are to be from 9 A. M. to 12 M. and from 3 P. M. to 5 P. M. daily. In the intervals the committees will meet for the transaction of business confided to them.

TWENTY-ENGHT WOMEN ARRESTED BY THE Police.-The block of houses running from Seventeenth to Eighteenth streets, between Baker's alley and Cary street, is for the most part inhabited by large numbers of the lowest class of white and negro women, who live together in rags and squalid filth, and make day and night resound with their quarrels and drunken brawle. This "Five Points" of Richmond, long the resort of ordered to be confined until she can be sent drunken sailors, vile negroes, and worthless to the Central Lunatic Asylum. white men, and the constant scene of debauchery and vice, has of late become a nuisance so intolerable, respectable people doing busicess in that neighborhood have been compelled to lodge complaint with the police authorities.

Last night in execution of a warrant ssued by Justice William E. Granger, Sergeant Dan Wren, assisted by Officers Jeter, Otey, Rex, and Keegan, arrested in these dens twenty-eight women, white and black, besides two negro men who were caught in the act of gambling, and locked them up at the First Police Station. All but one or two of these women are notorious characters, utterly destitute of decency or morality, who have been before the Police Court numberless times for different grades of offences against the law. In fact it is from this quarter the Police Court derives most of its criminal business. It is to be regretted that the city has no work-house in which to place habitual disturbers of the peace, who cannot be deterred by the imposition of fines, and who care but little if sent to jail to eat the bread of idleness.

INSTALLATION OF PYTHIAN OFFICERS .-Quite a large number of persons assembled at the Odd Fellows Hall last night, among whom were many ladies, to witness the installation of the officers recently elected by Chancellor John C. Teller, officiated, assisted by acting grand officers Charles F. Taylor and J. J. White. Addresses were delivered by Past Chancellors Gilman and White, Chancellors Cook, Taylor and others. A splendid collation was spread and highly enjoyed by all present. RESIGNATION OF COMPANY D FIREMEN.-The following resignation of the members of Company D, of the Richmond Fire Department, was handed to the chief yesterday morning RICHMOND. July 8, 1874.

To Captain George A. Ainstie. Chief of the Fire Department: Sir.—We, the undersigned, members of Company D. Fire Department, in consideration of the treatment of our respected captain, John J. King, by the Council at their last meeting, respectfully tender our resignation as members of the Fire

The fact that there was collected for strikes nearly $7,000 during a time when two-thirds of our number were idle or working short time, not only demonstrates the fact that the law is a good one, but proves beyond a doubt that we have arrived at that period in our history when members will make almost any sacrifice to maintain our organization and its laws."

"The law provides that no strike can be recognized that has not been first referred to look over the letters. I made appliance on the grounds a new and clerk (a white man), who recognized that has not been first referred to lock over the letters. I made appliance of any place of
